“I would like to note the importance of the document ‘Regulations for Military Clergy’. The document has been adopted by the Supreme Church Council and we should give our blessing for its implementation.

“We will have to approve a number of important liturgical texts: orders of services and akathist hymns, prepared by our Liturgical Commission.

“Another significant document, regarding the surrogate motherhood, has been prepared by the Synodal Biblical and Theological Commission. As you know, the issue was raised in the Basis of the Social Concept of the Russian Orthodox Church. However, the problem of the baptism of infants, born to surrogate mothers, was not so acute back then. I charged the Biblical and Theological Commission with the task of examining the issue, and today you will be informed of the results of the Commission’s work.”
