At the Augmented Litany prayers were offered for Holy Russia. Also at the Augmented Litany special petitions were offered for His Holiness the Patriarch who was celebrating his name's day:

“Again we pray to thee, our Lord and God, that thou will harken to the voice of our petition and prayer and have mercy upon thy servant, His Holiness the Patriarch Kirill who today celebrates his name's day, through thy grace and great mercies and fulfill all his petitions, and forgive all his sins both voluntary and voluntary; that his entreaties and mercies be acceptable before thy majestic throne and that he be protected from enemies visible and invisible, from all danger and affliction, and be delivered from all infirmities; that he may be give health and length of days: let us all day, O Lord, hear and have mercy.

“Look down, O Master who lovest mankind, with thy all-merciful eye upon thy servant His Patriarch Kirill: and hearken unto our petitions uttered in faith for thou didst say: for whatsoever thou entreat in prayer, believe it so and you shall receive, and it will be unto you; and again: ask and it will be given unto you. Therefore, we the unworthy who have set our hope upon thy mercy, beseech thee: grant thy beneficence to thy servant His Holiness Patriarch Kirill who celebrates his name's day and fulfill all his good desires in peace and tranquility, and in health and preserve him for many days of long life: let us all say, harken quickly and have mercy.

O All-Good Master, as a sweet-smelling incense and burnt offering, may this thanksgiving before the majesty of thy glory be for all the good things that thou hast poured out abundantly upon thy servant His Holiness Patriarch Kirill as we fall down and glorify thee and offer our prayer to thee crying aloud: deliver thy servant His Holiness Kirill who celebrates his name's day and the Church of Russia that he leads from all the wiles of enemies both visible and invisible. Grant to her faithful children sinless length of years and health and growth in all good deeds: we pray thee, All-Merciful King, list to us in thy mercy and have mercy upon us.”

Metropolitan Juvenaly (Poyarkov) read aloud the prayer of thanksgiving to the Lord Jesus Christ for the good deeds bestowed upon His Holiness Patriarch Kirill, who today celebrates his name's day:

“O Lord Jesus Christ our God, the God of all mercies, whose mercy is boundless and who art the sea of ineffable love of humankind! Falling down before thy majesty in fear and trembling as thine unworthy servants, we render thanksgiving to thy beneficence upon thy servant His Holiness Patriarch Kirill who today celebrates his name's day and humbly beseech thee as God, Master and Benefactor, we glorify, praise, hymn and magnify thee as we fall down before thee and again give thanks for thy boundless and ineffable mercy as we humbly beseech thee. As thou has vouchsafed to accept the petitions of thy servants and mercifully fulfilled them, so too henceforth in thy sincere love and growing in all virtues vouchsafe His Holiness Patriarch Kirill and the Church of Russia which he leads to be delivered from all evil and calamities, thereby granting him peace and tranquility so that to thee with thy Unoriginate Father and All-Holy and Good and Consubstantial Spirit in One Essence he may render all good things to thee and sing thy praises: glory to thee our God and Benefactor, unto the ages of ages.

His Holiness the Patriarch then read the prayer for the unity of Holy Russia.

The homily before holy communion was delivered by archimandrite Symeon (Tomachinsky), lecturer at the department of philology at the Moscow Theological Academy and director of the Cenobia Cultural and Educational Centre at the Monastery of the Holy Trinity and Saint Sergius.

At the conclusion of the Divine Liturgy a short service of praise was held for the Holy and Equal-to-the Apostles Cyril and Methodius at which His Holiness the Patriarch read the prayer to the Evangelizers of the Slavs.

Then 'Many Years' was sung to His Holiness Patriarch Kirill on the occasion of his name's day.

The metropolitan of Voskresensk Gregory read aloud a congratulatory address by the members of the Holy Synod of the Russian Orthodox Church to His Holiness Patriarch Kirill on the occasion of his name's day and presented His Holiness with an antique icon of the Mother of God entitled "What shall we call thee, O thou who art full of grace" (also known as "The Grace from Heaven") and a bouquet of white roses.

His Holiness Patriarch Kirill was congratulated on behalf of the Russian president Vladimir Putin by the Russian presidential plenipotentiary for the central district I. O. Schegolev. His Holiness the Patriarch was congratulated on behalf of the Russian government by D. N. Chernyshenko, who read aloud a congratulatory address by the Russian prime minister Mikhail Mishustin.

The Primate of the Russian Church then addressed to all those present at the service his archpastoral homily.

His Holiness Patriarch Kirill then presented the Christ the Saviour Cathedral with a liturgical Book of the Gospels.

There was then held a ceremony in which ecclesiastical awards were given to those bishops who were celebrating important anniversaries and who had especially laboured for the good of the Holy Church.

“Dear bishops, fathers, brothers and sisters, I once again congratulate you all on this remarkable day. I believe that our collective worships has a special effect on each and every one of us. When bishops celebrate the Divine Liturgy together they truly project the image of the Catholic Apostolic Church. May it please God that no human efforts aimed at weakening the conciliar nature of our Church ever come to fruition. May it please God through our common worship and through our common deeds faith and the spiritual life of our nature be strengthened. And may it please God that in response to our modest endeavours Holy Russia will truly prosper in her Orthodox faith, piety and purity. Amen. Christ is risen!” said His Holiness Patriarch Kirill in his concluding words to those who attended the service.
